

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

1. A bag for a mobile phone made of soft plastic material, comprising:

5 two layers of the material, being treated with high frequency thermo-bonding technique to form a specific shape with a receiving room and an opening;

characterized in that the two bonded layer provides a facial side with a middle transparent area, an 10 air filling part surrounding the transparent area, a rear side filled with a filling inlet, and a chain clip at the opening; a foldable part is arranged behind the chain clip with two hook and loop fastener band being fixedly attached to the facial side and the rear side respectively such that 15 the two hook and loop fastener band can adhere firmly after the foldable part being folded, and a hanging plate is disposed at the back of the foldable part with a hanging hole.

20

25

30